The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1,2,3,4,6,7,9,15-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1 and 15:

a. the term "commodity is first introduced into the claims on line 2 of the preamble using an indefinite article "an". Then, in line 5 the term is again used, this time with the definite article "the". Then on line 14 of page 2, the term "commodity" is referenced using the term "a" signifying that maybe another commodity is being referenced. Are these the same thing, or is there different commodities being recited? Still further, on page 3, line 2 of claim 1, what is "the commodity" associated with second group? Is the commodity belonging to the second group the same as that referenced in the preceding part of this claim?

b. When the term "number" is recited does it mean number of units? If so, then applicant should amend the claims to include this clarifying language,
